Subject: Meeting with Oregon Department of Forestry regarding the State's Riparian Rule analysis and possible ODF rule changes

ODF and EPA, and possibly DEQ, would like to get together on February 17th in Portland to discuss the State's progress on its riparian rule analysis. As you all know, ODF is completing a rules analysis based on findings from the RipStream study that show the State's Protecting Cold Water (PCW) criterion would likely be exceeded 40% of the time when current ODF riparian rules are implemented. At the April Forestry Board meeting, the staff will present to the Board the results of the rules analysis and options for possible rule changes. The Board will vote on the options to further pursue. The final rule change will be voted on in July.

I also suspect the State would like to discuss NOAA/EPA's CZARA decision as well.

As I mentioned, the meeting will be in Portland. We are still working on the specific logistics.

Please let me know if this works for you.
